Get involved

with Warwickshire Wildlife Trust

People from all walks of life can become volunteers with Warwickshire Wildlife Trust

Whether you are at school, college or university, retired, unemployed or working full-time there is something for you

Ways you can help Warwickshire Wildlife Trust

Conservation

- Join Nature Force, our mid-week conservation volunteers
- Come along to our weekend work parties
- Become a volunteer warden on one of our 56 nature reserves

Monitoring

- Surveying species to monitor our management
- Surveying habitats and land use
- Hedgerow surveys
- Otter and water vole surveys

Magazine

- Delivering the Trust magazine to houses in your local area three times a year

Community

- Assisting local communities to develop their green spaces
- Publicising Trust events in your local area

Administration

- Various office and administration tasks with the teams at Brandon Marsh Nature Centre, near Coventry and our Parkridge Centre, Brueton Park, Solihull

Volunteering can:

- Allow you to learn more about the countryside and how and why it is managed
- Enable you to give something back to your local community
- Give you a chance to meet new people and make new friends
- Help you to get exercise and keep fit
- Keep you busy and active in your retirement
- Provide you with experience for your CV
- Offer you a work placement for school, college or university

Education

- Leading and assisting school groups
- Supporting holiday activities and birthday parties
- Office based preparation and administration support

Visitor Centre

- Serving customers at our visitor centres and shops
- Providing visitors with information and guidance about the Trust and its work

Organisation

- Helping local groups to run activities in your local area
- Helping to manage the Trust by becoming a Trustee

Trust Ambassadors

- Helping to raise the profile of Warwickshire Wildlife Trust
- Represent the Trust and promote our work, membership, volunteering and legacies through stands at local events and shows
- Act as 'ambassadors' for leaving a legacy to the Trust or major donor fundraising, if appropriate
